Who uses SCHOOLTYPE, and where they enter

One website serves every school. Each school only sees its own students, staff, attendance, fees, and messages. Parents never receive a sign-in.

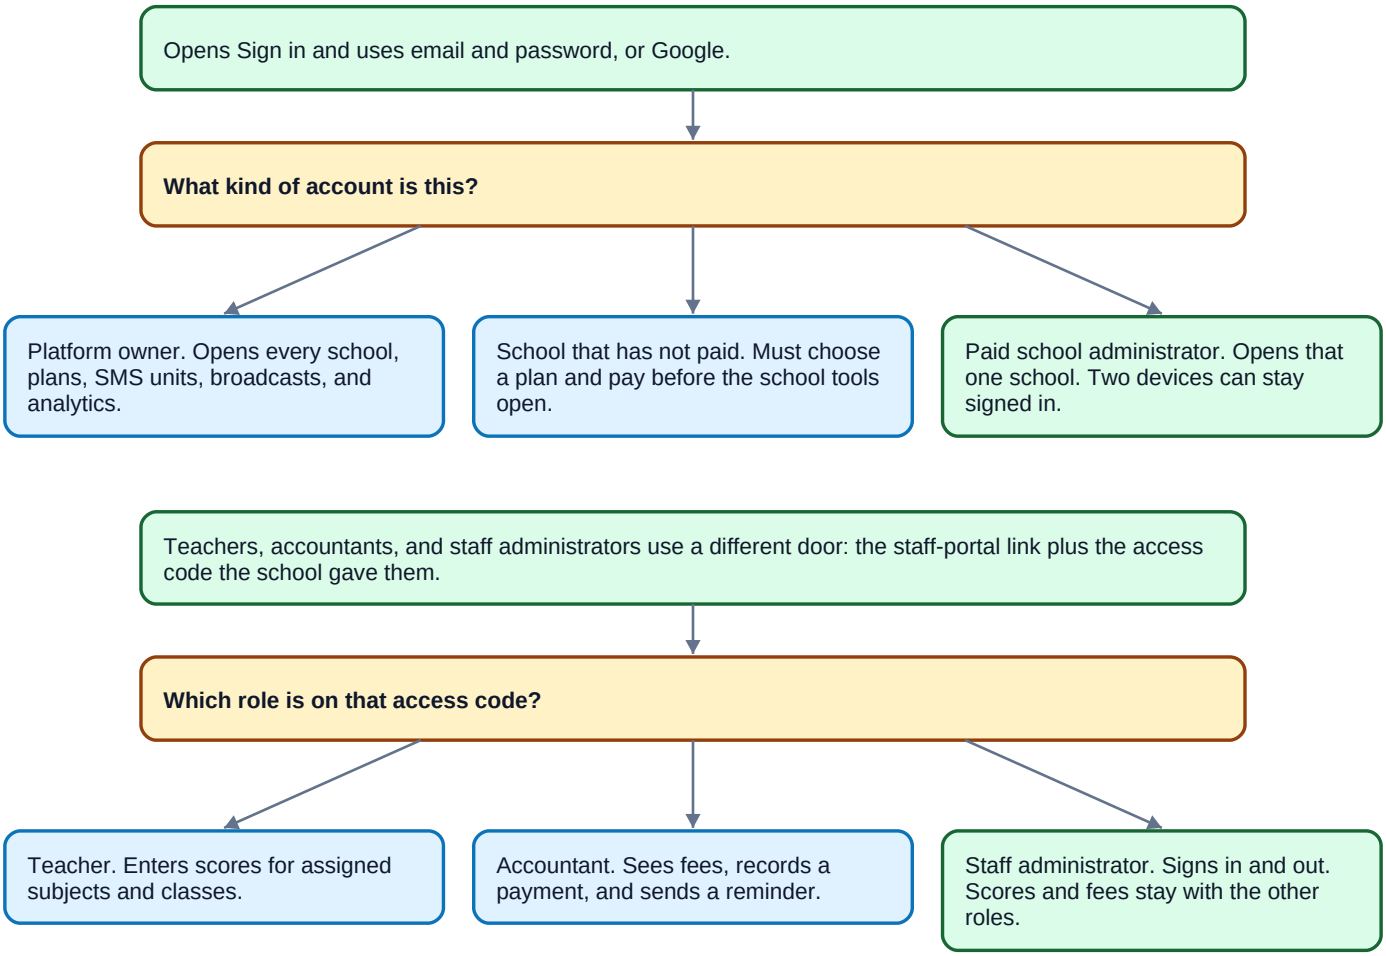

Person	Door	What they can do
Visitor	Home page	Reads the product, opens plans, pays fees, or reads the privacy notice.
New school	Plans, then signup	Pays yearly by MoMo, card, or bank. The account exists only after payment succeeds.
School administrator	Sign in	Runs one school: people, classes, attendance, messages, fees, wallet, report cards, and alumni.
Teacher	Staff portal + code	Enters scores for the subjects and classes assigned to them.
Accountant	Staff portal + code	Records fee payments and sends fee reminders.
Staff administrator	Staff portal + code	Can sign in. This role cannot enter scores or manage fees.
Parent	Pay fees page	Looks up a student ID and pays. Cannot open results or attendance.
Platform owner	Sign in	Sees every school, plans, SMS units, and platform analytics.

A student, fee, score, or attendance row is stored with that school's id. Another school's sign-in cannot open it. The platform owner is the only login that can see across schools.

A normal school day

School administrator opens the dashboard: students, staff, today's attendance, and fees.

Setup: creates classes, subjects, terms, and the fee amount for each class.

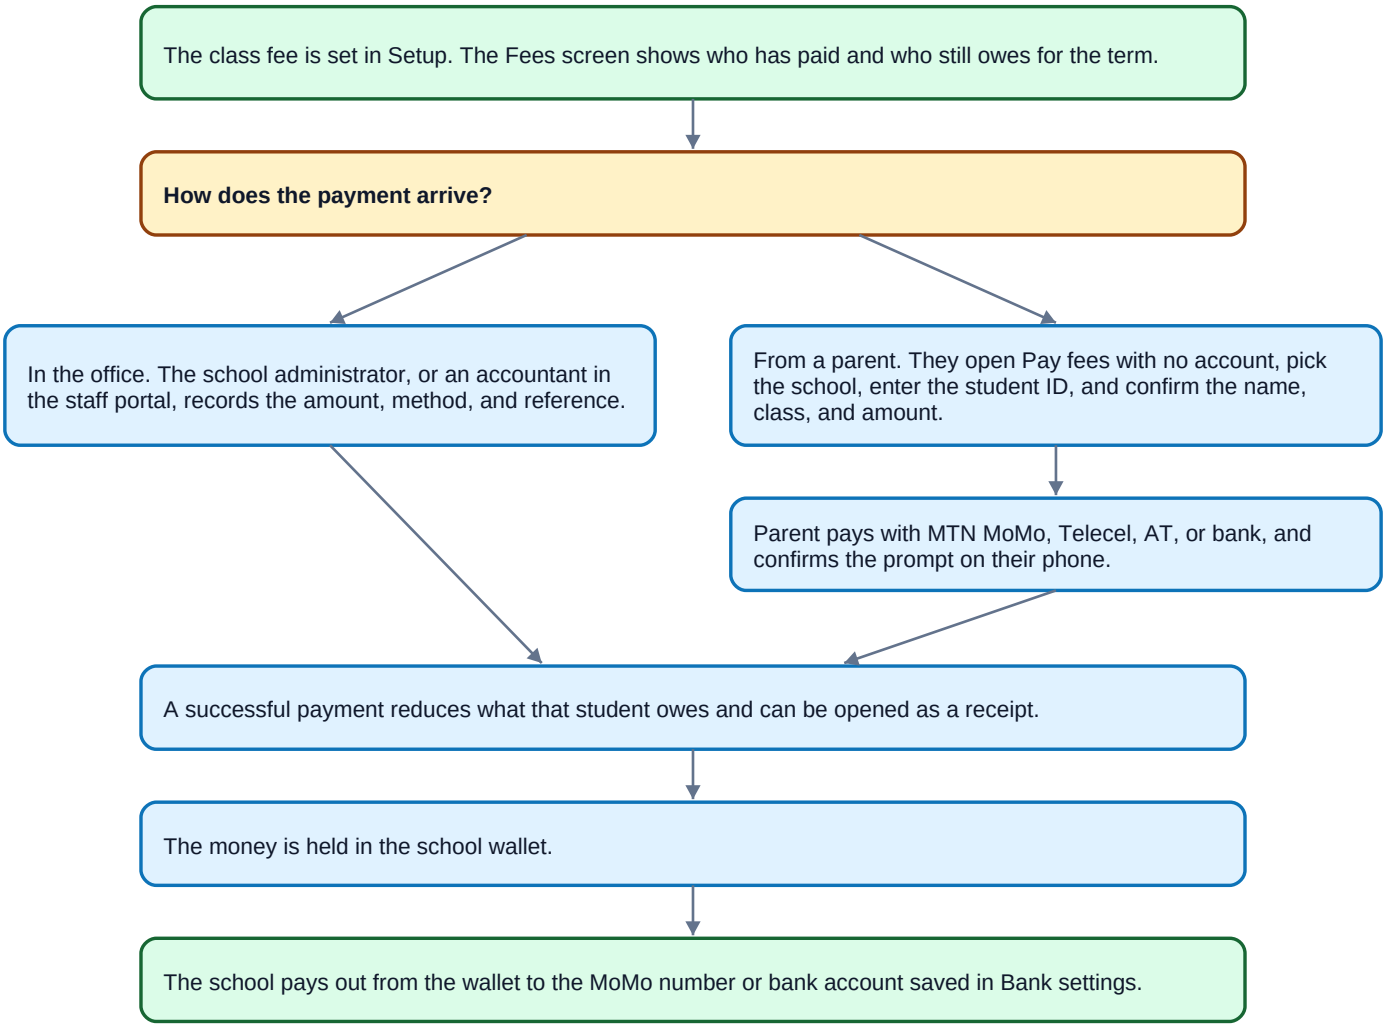

People: enrolls students and adds staff. A new student receives an ID such as BFA-AA-2026-001: school letters, a two-letter mark, the year they enrolled, and a number that counts inside that class. Class 1 and Class 2 can each start at 001.

Attendance: a desk scanner or a phone camera reads the student's QR code and marks them for today. The school can filter the list and export it.

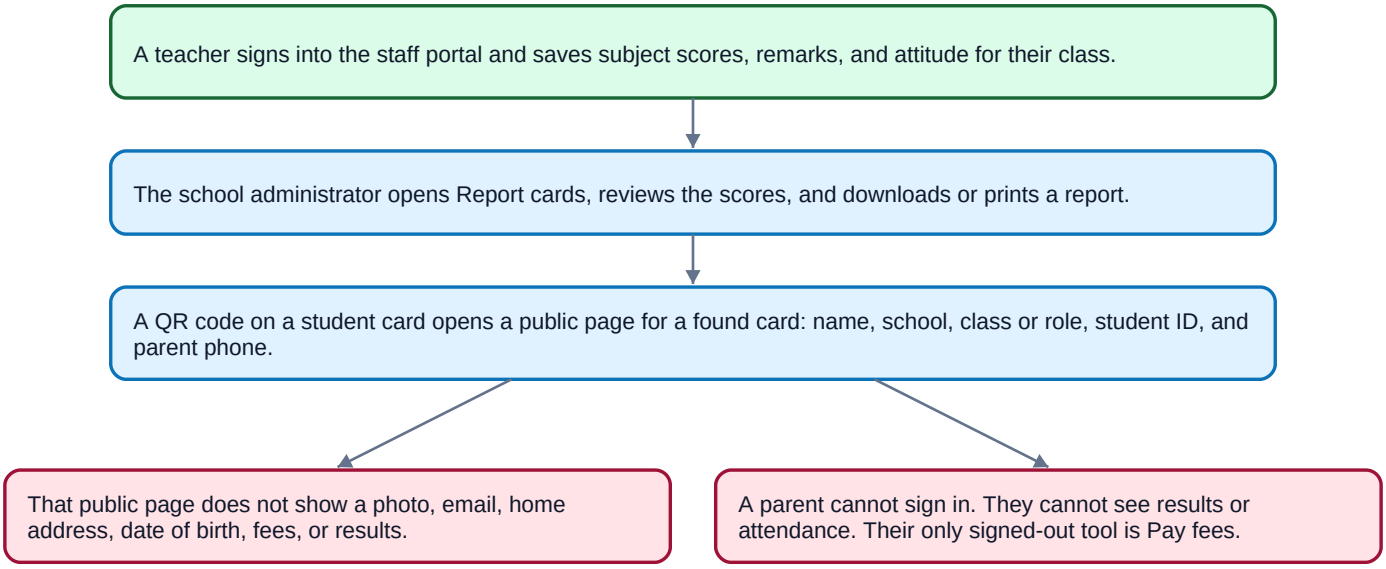

Messages: the school sends SMS or email to parents and staff. SMS uses units bought from the school wallet.

At the end of the year the school saves the finishing class as alumni. Those students leave the current list. The alumni record stays until the school deletes it.
